Sherriff is Back in Town to Quell Forces of Chaos: Grand Opening set for TPWCSL

Trailer 34 news agency reported today that Sheriff Champagne has been summoned by high ranking members of Omega Institute and Trailer Park, NY to restore spiritual order in the region. Sheriff Champagne, who has always been known for her strict enforcement of the Staff Handbook, and for creatively re-educating criminals by making them hold Downward Dog for days on end, has been seen as the only answer to recent outbursts of chaotic behavior in the region.

“I’m back,” said the Sheriff in a short press conference held at the Omega Sanctuary. “Though I may not be MOD anymore, I’m still the one and only Sheriff Champagne.”

Brining Sheriff Champagne back to the region was a collaborative brainchild between MOD Supervisor Holly VanLeuven, Trailer Park Mayor Andrew Milford, and Staff Programs Coordinator Brett Bevell.

Though she will teaching her discipline primarily through yoga and not be physically present for the Grand Opening of the reconstructed Trailer Park Water Closet for Sustainable Lathering, it is likely her presence on campus will be enough to make the event go smoothly. Both Mayor Milford and Vice Mayor Weinfeld have expressed confidence that when they cut the toilet paper ribbons at 5pm Wednesday, July 29th to celebrate the TPWCSL, there will be no post curfew event overflow. “If anything overflows at all, it will just be the toilets,” said the Vice Mayor.

The Village of Trailer Park, NY has used their allotment of funds from President Obama’s stimulus package to create shovel ready state of the art toilet facilities. The fresh paint and new look is enough to make any Trailer Park resident more than happy to fulfill their biological destiny after consuming traditional Omega culinary delights such as kombucha and tofu. Neither Mayor Milford’s office nor Staff Programs would comment on whether or not these funds were being used to pay for Sheriff Champagne’s return.
